

U.C. Ringer
Medusa (Medusa)
Fiction, book in progress

The story revolves around a raped young woman and a bizarre banquet in a mysterious palace in Naples that ends in murder. The corpse is found in a sea cave, surrounded by snake fish and the mosaic of a Medusa's head. The shadow of the poet Virgil and a strange legend concerning his alleged magical powers hang over the crime. Professor Cariello is assigned to investigate the legend, but when he finds the remains of the great poet in Castel dell'Ovo, he unknowingly falls into a dangerous trap...

U.C. Ringer Born in Germany but Parisian by adoption, U.C. Ringer is a renowned archaeologist who has also established herself as a writer of historical thrillers thanks to her expertise in history and science and her skill in detective writing. Her books are based on real facts from the projects she has taken part in around the world, and draw on the author's sound knowledge as an expert in the field of archaeology and investigative journalism.

