Borowitz, Andy

PROFILES IN IGNORANCE: How America's Politicians Got Dumb And Dumber

Hardcover * September 2022

The first work of straight nonfiction from Andy Borowitz, “America’s sharpest political satirist” (The Washington Post), Profiles in Ignorance: How America’s Politicians Got Dumb and Dumber examines modern American politics in five entertaining and enlightening profiles. Borowitz argues that over the past fifty years, American politicians have grown increasingly allergic to knowledge, and mass media have encouraged the election of ignoramus by elevating candidates who are better at performing than thinking. Starting with Ronald Reagan’s first campaign for governor of California in 1966 and culminating with the election of Donald J. Trump to the White House, Borowitz shows how, during the age of 24-hour news and social media, the US has elected politicians to positions of great power whose lack of the most basic information is terrifying. In addition to Reagan, Quayle, Bush, Palin, and Trump, Borowitz covers a host of congresspersons, senators, and governors who have helped lower the bar over the past five decades. Borowitz is an award-winning comedian and New York Times–bestselling author. He grew up in Cleveland, Ohio, and graduated from Harvard College, where he became President of the Harvard Lampoon. In 1998 he began contributing humor to The New Yorker’s “Shouts & Murmurs” and “Talk of the Town” departments. In 2001 he created The Borowitz Report, a satirical news column, which has millions of readers around the world. In 2012, The New Yorker began publishing The Borowitz Report. As a storyteller, he hosted “Stories at the Moth” from 1999 to 2009. As a comedian, he has played to sold-out venues around the world, including during his national tour, “Make America Not Embarrassing Again,” from 2018 to 2020. He is the first-ever winner of the National Press Club’s humor award. He lives with his family in New Hampshire.

Bruni, Frank

BEAUTY OF DUSK: On Vision Lost and Found

Hardcover * March 2022

One morning in late 2017, Frank Bruni woke up with strangely blurred vision. Overnight, a rare stroke had cut off blood to one of his optic nerves, rendering him functionally blind in that eye—forever. And soon he learned from doctors that the same disorder could ravage his left eye, too. He could lose his sight altogether. In The Beauty of Dusk, Bruni hauntingly recounts his adjustment to his daunting reality, a medical and spiritual odyssey that involved not only reappraising his priorities but also reaching out to, and gathering wisdom from, longtime friends and new acquaintances who had navigated their own traumas and afflictions. The result is a poignant, probing, and ultimately uplifting examination of the limits that all of us inevitably encounter, the lenses through which we choose to evaluate them, and the tools we have for perseverance.

Confronting unexpected hardship, he felt more blessed than ever before. There was vision lost. There was also vision found. The Beauty of Dusk shows readers how he found meaning in that—and how to approach aging and mortality with joy. Bruni has been a prominent journalist for more than three decades, including more than twenty-five years at The New York Times. He is the author of three New York Times bestsellers. In 2021, he became a full professor at Duke University.

THE RISE OF THE REST: How Entrepreneurs In Surprising Places Are Building The New American Dream

Hardcover * September 2022

RISE OF THE REST is based on a simple idea: cities can be renewed again through a vibrant startup culture if they have the right kind of support. Great entrepreneurs can be found anywhere, so let's go find them and invest in them. It's the American way, because America itself was a startup. It struggled to get going and almost didn't make it. Today it's the leader of the free world, built by entrepreneurs. But America needs help keeping its promises. We've seen as much as 75 percent of venture capital going to just three states—California, New York and Massachusetts—while the rest of the country fights it out for the remaining 25 percent. Only 10 percent of investments go to women-run enterprises, and one percent to Black founders. Rise of the Rest is about leveling the playing field for everybody. This book, Rise of the Rest: How Entrepreneurs Are Building the New American Dream, tells that story. Case is one of America's best-known and most accomplished entrepreneurs, and a pioneer in making the Internet part of everyday life. Case's passion for helping entrepreneurs remains his driving force. He was the founding chair of the Startup America Partnership—an effort launched at the White House in 2011 to accelerate high-growth entrepreneurship throughout the nation. Case also was the founding co-chair of the National Advisory Council on Innovation & Entrepreneurship, and a member of President Obama's Council on Jobs and Competitiveness, where he chaired the subcommittee on entrepreneurship. As chairman and CEO of Revolution, a Washington, DC based investment firm he cofounded in 2005, Case partners with visionary entrepreneurs to build businesses such as Zipcar, Sweetgreen, and many others. He is the Chairman and CEO, Revolution; Founder and Partner, Revolution Growth; Co-Founder, America Online; Chairman, Case Foundation.

ONE HUNDRED SATURDAYS: Stella Levi and the Vanished World of Jewish Rhodes

Hardcover * September 2022

In the spirit of Tuesdays with Morrie, the story of the life and times of Stella Levi, a 98-year-old Auschwitz survivor currently living in the West Village, whose Saturday conversations with Guggenheim fellow and New York City neighbor Michael Frank bring to life the vibrant world of Jewish Rhodes, the daily horrors of life in the camps in eastern Europe, and the humanity and intelligence of the woman who lived to tell the tale. “Having the last word can be very lonely.”

Nearly a century of life behind her, Stella Levi had never shared the full details of her past with anyone. That is until she met Michael Frank, and asked him to help her polish a talk she was to give about life in the Juderia of Rhodes.

Neither of them could know that this was the first of one hundred Saturdays that they would spend in each other's company, as Stella unspools for the first time the long threads of her history—from the sun-soaked shores of her childhood, to the fifteen harrowing months she spent in camps scattered throughout Europe, and finally to the United States and New York as one of only 150 Jews from Rhodes to survive. Frank is the author of the memoir The Mighty Franks and the novel What is Missing. His essays, articles, and short stories have appeared in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Atlantic, Slate, The Yale Review, Salmagundi, The TLS, and Tablet, among other publications. His fiction has been presented at Symphony Space's Selected Shorts: A Celebration of the Short Story, and his travel writing has been collected in Italy: The Best Travel Writing from The New York Times. He served as a Contributing Writer to the Los Angeles Times Book Review for nearly ten years. A recipient of a 2020 Guggenheim Fellowship, he lives with his family in New York City and Liguria, Italy. Maira Kalman was born in Tel Aviv in 1949 and is now an artist, writer, and designer who since 1954 has lived in New York City. She has a daughter, a son, and two grandchildren.

Morton, Brian

TASHA: A Son's Memoir

Hardcover * April 2022

Tasha Morton was a force of nature and Jewish mother extraordinaire—as vivid and outrageous a character as you might find in Philip Roth’s fiction. She was a brilliant, innovative, empowering educator who left her mark on generations of students; but as a mother, she was intrusive, chaotic, and headstrong. Once he left home, Brian held her at a self-protective distance. When Tasha’s health began to fail, Brian knew he had to step up, but he was not prepared for the minefield that awaited him—his mother’s stubborn refusal to accept her own fragility; the anger she often unleashed on him; his own excruciating ambivalence towards her, complicated now by his newfound ability to see her for who she was; and of course the shocking lack of societal systems in place to help families navigate this challenging stage of life. Clear-eyed, unsparing, and shot through with a wicked deadpan humor, acclaimed novelist Brian Morton’s memoir addresses ideas about masculinity, family, and responsibility, and asks how we can honor our parents without forsaking ourselves—and vice versa. Tasha is both a son’s brave reckoning, and a stunning tribute to an unforgettable woman. Morton is the author of four novels, including Starting Out in the Evening, which was a finalist for the PEN/Faulkner Award and was made into an acclaimed feature film.

BUTTS: How We Shape Our Bodies and How Our Bodies Shape Us

Hardcover * November 2022

An unexpected, fascinating journey into the scientific and cultural history of the female butt, from fossils and flappers to Buns of Steel and Baby Got Back. Growing up Heather Radke always felt that her butt was too big. That is, until one day a decade or so later, when she realized that bodies like hers were suddenly everywhere, in music videos and song lyrics, advertisements, and on the cover of celebrity tabloids. The thing she had been raised to be ashamed of was suddenly a kind of superpower: what had happened? To find out, Radke—now a museum curator and writer—set out on a journey to discover how a random collection of fat and flesh became the most racialized, sexualized, and mythologized part of the female body. Part reportage, part personal journey, and part cabinet of curiosities, Butts provides an entertaining and informative, but thoughtfully analytic understanding of how our most private feelings about our own bodies emerge from larger forces, and how and why certain kinds of bodies come in and out of fashion.

THE GENIUS OF ISRAEL: What One Small Nation Can Teach The World
Hardcover * November 2022

From the co-authors of the New York Times–bestselling Start-Up Nation: The Story of Israel's Economic Miracle comes the highly anticipated follow-up, The Genius of Israel, breaking down the defining factors behind Israel's successful trajectory of innovation and explaining how other nations can learn from its development. In Singer and Senor's prior book Start-Up Nation, the co-authors addressed the trillion dollar question: How is it that Israel—a country of 7.1 million, only 60 years old, surrounded by enemies, in a constant state of war since its founding, with no natural resources—produces more start-up companies than large, peaceful, and stable nations like Japan, China, India, Korea, Canada and the UK? Senor and Singer's astute analysis of Israel's unique policies and culture, and their practical conclusions of how other nations could learn from its example, made Start-Up Nation a major bestseller in the US and around the globe, translated into 30 languages. Now in their follow-up, The Genius of Israel, Senor and Singer study the global innovation race and present a new universal metric to evaluate where different nations stand in the quest to achieve new levels of innovation. They identify the two categories of countries most likely to make a dramatic leap forward, and they illustrate how the world has greatly changed in the decade since Start-Up Nation was published. Senor is an executive at Elliott Management and co-author of the best-seller Start-Up Nation: The Story of Israel's Economic Miracle. He was a senior advisor to Paul Ryan's 2012 campaign for vice president and foreign policy advisor to Mitt Romney's presidential campaigns. A former Defense Department official, Senor has been based in Baghdad and at US Central Command in Qatar, and was a US Senate aide in the 1990s. He has written for The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times, USA Today, and The Washington Post. He lives in New York City. Saul Singer is the co-author of the best-selling book Start-Up Nation: The Story of Israel's Economic Miracle. He is a former Editorial Page Editor and columnist at the Jerusalem Post. In Israel, Singer has briefed visiting executives from or spoken at the Israeli headquarters of companies such as: Johnson & Johnson, Proctor & Gamble, Xerox, General Electric, IBM, AT&T, Microsoft, and DuPont. Before moving to Israel in 1994, he served for ten years as an advisor to different U.S. Members of Congress and on the staffs of the U.S. House Foreign Affairs and Senate Banking Committees. He lives in Jerusalem with his wife and three children.
