RICH MOM, RICHER KID

A Simple 12-Step Plan to Build and Pass Down Generational Wealth

Nicole Lapin

The Mom's guide to everything you need to know about money and how to talk about it with your child.

Children who grow up in homes where money is discussed openly, where saving is visible and normalized, where financial decisions are made out loud, develop measurably stronger financial habits than kids whose parents avoid the topic or outsource it entirely.

In Rich Mom, Richer Kid, Nicole Lapin teaches moms how to:

- Rewrite your money story to avoid passing down shame and guilt.
- Build a savvy and accessible way to track the family P&L.
- Budget for the unexpected—everything from one-time emergencies to long-term diagnoses.
- Model and teach healthy financial behavior for every age and stage.
- Create a lasting financial legacy.

Lapin has spent over 15 years teaching millions of women how to budget, save, invest, negotiate, and protect themselves financially. Two weeks after becoming a mother, a wildfire leveled her home, her studio, everything she'd built while pregnant with her daughter. The pajamas she had on when her town evacuated were, for a while, the only clothes she owned. Everything else was ash.

Standing in the wreckage of her old life, she made herself a promise: shLnst the most demanding period of her life, so that she could build back her wealth and pass it down to her daughter.

This book is all about what she discovered in the process and how you can do the same.

Go-to money expert Nicole Lapin got her start in the business world at age 18, reporting from the floor of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. Nicole went on to become the youngest anchor ever at CNN and then to claim the same title at CNBC, where she anchored Worldwide Exchange while contributing financial reports to MSNBC and Today. She has served as a business anchor for Bloomberg TV and a special money correspondent for Entertainment Tonight.

THE FIVE STAGES OF CAREER GROWTH

Mastering the Invisible Shifts That Shape Your Career

Tessa White, The Job Doctor

Essential guidance for navigating the modern workplace and mastering the communication styles needed to advance at each stage of your career.

In our current AI-disrupted, hybrid/remote vascillating, generational-styles conflicted work environments, it has never been more difficult to understand your role and how to ensure you are on a path of promotion.

In this groundbreaking guide, Bestselling author Tessa White shares how communication styles must shift depending on which career phase you are in, providing practical examples and insights from her over 20 years of HR experience at Fortune 50 companies. First you must understand the 5 stages and then how your communication style needs to change in each phase in order to succeed and advance:

- Stage One: The Doers
- Stage Two: The Achievers
- Stage Three: The Collaborators
- Stage Four: The Builders
- Stage Five: The Expanders

With The Five Stages of Career Growth, you can vastly increase not only your ability to be successful in the role you are in, but to gain clarity and momentum for how to get to advance to next level.

Known as The Job Doctor, Tessa White exploded on social media with her expertise on careers and how to navigate the complicated relationship between individuals and the workplace. Her insights struck a chord, garnering more than one million followers and podcast listeners since her first TikTok post in 2020. Her first role, working with acclaimed leadership expert Stephen R. Covey, started her on a 25-year journey designing and leading human resource functions—from Fortune 50 companies, to fast growth technology startups, to one of the largest direct sales companies in the nation. Her career straight talk and thought leadership on the future of work is found in top-tier media, and she has been listed as one of the top entrepreneurs to watch in 2022 by USA Today.

THE NARRATIVE METHOD

A Writing Practice for Not Hating Yourself and Discovering Who You Really Are

Shari Foos

Find the freedom of knowing the true and authentic version of you. When you untangle the false beliefs and stories you've been fed, you can build a new foundation of self-acceptance.

Are you secretly convinced that people would be shocked to find out how neurotic you are? Many of us have crafted our identities around a tentpole of shame, embarrassment, fear, and anxiety. What if a simple journaling practice could help you unwind that story, untangle old beliefs, and build a more profound relationship with yourself?

Enter The Narrative Method—a 13-week writing journey of self-discovery fueled by the power of your own imagination. Created by Shari Foos, an artist and activist turned licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, The Narrative Method guides you through a series of thoughtful daily prompts and creative exercises to explore your inner world. This practice is designed to help you access your imagination to express your creativity, upgrade your thinking, stop hating yourself, and discover who you really are.

So come on in, and let the story change! This book is not about becoming a better writer, although you may. It's about using writing as a vehicle for upgrading your relationship with yourself and everyone else in the process. Discover the power of articulating your own experience as you shed the stories that culture has fed you and dive deeper into the true and authentic version of you.

Shari Foos is a Marriage and Family Therapist (LMFT) licensed in California and New York. She earned an MS in Narrative Medicine from Columbia University and an MA in Clinical Psychology from Antioch University Los Angeles. At Antioch, she founded BRIDGE, a free yearlong university-level humanities program for low-income adults without prior university or high school degrees. Still going strong, BRIDGE has transformed the lives of hundreds of impoverished, unhoused, or otherwise ignored individuals. Shari is the recipient of the New Directions for Veterans Community Hero Award (2015). She currently serves on the board of the City Kids Foundation and has served as a judge for the Gold Humanism in Medicine Award since 2014.

FROM GAZA TO THE WHITE HOUSE

A Journalist's Quest to Find Humanity and Hope

Nadia Bilbassy

From Gaza to the White House, she carried the stories of people the world tried to forget in this compelling memoir that narrates a Palestinian woman's remarkable journey to White House correspondent, navigating wars, the corridors of power, and personal love and loss.

Raised in Palestine, Nadia Bilbassy grew up in a place where beauty and hardship existed side by side—where family, memory, and resilience were woven into daily life, even as conflict pressed in from all directions. She learned early that people are always more than the circumstances surrounding them, and that outlook shaped everything that followed. Her life takes her on paths of love and tragedy that she couldn't have imagined, but she still makes a choice: she will not be defined by grief, but will instead keep moving forward, carrying both sorrow and joy at once.

As a foreign correspondent, she builds a life on the front lines of global conflict, reporting from Africa and Southeast Asia while raising her children in the margins of instability. Her days are filled with the stories of war—rebel leaders, displaced families, lives upended by forces beyond their control—while her nights are grounded in the rituals of motherhood. She refuses to see anyone as a headline. Instead, she searches for the humanity in every story, recognizing in others the same love, fear, and longing that anchor her own life. Even in the most fractured places, she finds connection. When her journey takes her from war zones to the White House briefing room, she brings those stories with her.

This intensely personal memoir is set against the backdrop of some of the most consequential events of our time. At its heart it is a story of choosing joy in the face of unimaginable loss, refusing to let the world harden you, and engaging in the quiet, radical act of truly seeing people—fully, honestly, and with compassion—even when the world would rather look away.

Nadia Bilbassy is a Senior Correspondent in Washington DC for Al Arabiya TV and MBC TV. She reports on U.S. foreign policy vis-à-vis the Arab world.

THE LAST FLIGHT

The Untold Story of the Search for JFK Jr. and the Race Against the Atlantic

Captain W. Russell Webster, USCG (Ret.) and Theresa M. Webster

On a hazy July night in 1999, John F. Kennedy Jr., his wife Carolyn, and her sister Lauren vanished over the waters off Martha's Vineyard—triggering a national vigil and one of the most ambitious search operations in American history. For days, the world watched and waited.

But the full story of what happened after the crash has never been told—until now.

In The Last Flight, Captain W. Russell Webster, the Coast Guard commander who led the search, and historian Theresa Mitchell Webster, take readers inside the high-stakes, emotionally charged mission to locate the missing aircraft and recover its passengers. Drawing on firsthand accounts, official reports, and newly uncovered insights, this gripping narrative reveals the unprecedented coordination between the Coast Guard, Navy, and NOAA in a race against time, technology, and the unforgiving sea.

Beyond the headlines lies a powerful human story—of exhausted rescuers, clashing agencies, political pressure, and quiet acts of heroism. From sonar operators and Navy divers to commanders navigating impossible decisions, each played a role in what became the largest and most expensive search ever for private citizens in a small airplane.

Blending narrative history with investigative depth, The Last Flight also explores unanswered questions surrounding the crash, offering a compelling new perspective on one of America's most haunting tragedies.

At once a pulse-pounding account and a deeply moving tribute, this is the definitive story of the mission that forever changed the Coast Guard—and a nation still captivated by the legacy of the Kennedy family.

Captain W. Russell Webster retired from federal service in 2023 following a 46-year career with the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Transportation Security Administration, and the United States Coast Guard. He served in the Coast Guard for 26 years, where he was engaged in or oversaw more than ten thousand search and rescue cases.

Theresa M. Webster is a historian, an award-winning journalist, and a former history newsmagazine editor. She is the author of eight books. Theresa holds three graduate degrees.

WHAT THE WORLD NEEDS NOW

Messages of Love and Hope (But No Advice, 'Cause No One Listens Anyway)
Dionne Warwick

What we need is a little more love. A little more hope. And a lot more Warwick, please.

From six-time Grammy Award-winning musical icon and global ambassador Dionne Warwick comes What the World Needs Now—a compilation of essays and affirmations to bring hope and peace to your soul. Plus, the classic Dionne-isms you've come to know and love.

From her beginnings in a God-fearing home in New Jersey to her rise as an international music icon, Dionne has lived a full and exciting life. In this book, she opens up about her groundbreaking career, what it was like working alongside some of the most brilliant musical minds, and her heartfelt advocacy during pivotal movements like the AIDS crisis. She also shares about life beyond the spotlight—the rich friendships she's shared through the years and the joy of being a mother to her two sons, Damon and David. Through it all, her faith and the wisdom of her family have been her guiding light.

As the internet's favorite auntie, Ms. Warwick speaks the truth you need to hear, offering her candid opinions on what the world needs now. Full of humor and warmth, this is a book to uplift and guide you through whatever you may be facing.

Vibrant high-design interiors make this a gorgeous book to display on your coffee table or give to a friend who needs a boost of inspiration.

Dionne Warwick ranks among the 40 biggest US hitmakers and is the second-most charted female vocalist during the rock era. During her career, she sold more than 100 million records worldwide, and she has won many awards, including six Grammys.

WE ARE STILL HERE

An Indigenous Exploration of Identity, Heritage, and Belonging
Alyssa London

Belonging is one of the most universal human needs, yet for many mixed-race Indigenous people, it can feel uncertain or contested. Tlingit author Alyssa London grew up with this tension, knowing who she was while sensing that others viewed her identity as something to debate.

In We Are Still Here, Alyssa interweaves her own story and conversations with Indigenous people across and beyond the United States to explore the deeper questions beneath identity: What defines belonging? Who gets to validate it? How do Indigenous people carry culture into the present when society often misunderstands or romanticizes them?

Through themes such as:

- Land- and place-based identity,
- Sovereignty and self-determination,
- Tribal economic development,
- Kinship, enrollment, and community-defined belonging,
- Cultural and artistic continuation,
- Representation and erasure, and
- Mixed-race identity and belonging,

Alyssa offers a portrait of Indigenous life that is expansive, ongoing, and deeply human, seeking to lay to rest the painful misconception that “real” Native people exist only in the past. We Are Still Here is both personal and collective. It reminds readers that identity is not something you earn or prove. It is something you inherit, live, and choose every day, without needing to justify it to anyone.

Heartfelt and hopeful, this book speaks to anyone who has ever questioned where they fit and affirms that belonging and identity are not given to you. They are yours to claim.

Alyssa London is a storyteller, journalist, and creative entrepreneur whose work explores identity, belonging, and culture across film, media, and writing. She is the founder and CEO of Culture Story, a creative studio and media platform producing journalism, documentary, and narrative work across multiple formats and genres. Alyssa has been a contributor to NBC News and MSNBC and hosted The Culture Is: Indigenous Women on Peacock.

EMBROIDERY GARDEN

25 Step-by-Step Floral Projects and Patterns

Rebekah Marshall

Pick up a needle. Find an hour. Make something beautiful.

Embroidery Garden is a beginner's guide to hand embroidery built around one of the most naturally satisfying subjects there is. Twenty-five projects span flowers, botanicals, and garden creatures — bees, butterflies, mushrooms, gnomes, lavender sprigs, trailing vines — each one designed to be approachable, rewarding, and genuinely lovely to look at when it's done.

Before the first project, you get everything you need to start: an illustrated guide to 25+ stitches, a full walkthrough of tools, materials, and pattern transfer, and clear instruction on finishing work. Every project that follows includes full-color photography of the finished piece, a complete materials list, a stitch reference, step-by-step illustrations, and a full-size template ready to trace straight from the page.

Projects are organized across three sections — Flowers, Botanicals, and Garden Friends — building naturally from simple single motifs to fuller, more confident compositions. The skills you learn in the first project carry through to the last.

Rebekah Marshall is the owner and designer behind her brand Bek's Stitches, where she expresses her love for bright colors and fun florals. She creates designs for her Instagram, online website, and Etsy shop. Rebekah has had features with Martha Stewart Living, Good Housekeeping, and more. She lives outside of Atlanta, Georgia with her family.

BEHIND THE BOTTLE: BUFFALO TRACE DISTILLERY

Heritage, Innovation, and the Rise of a Whiskey Legend

Richard Thomas

Buffalo Trace Distillery stands as one of America's oldest continuously operating distilleries, and a living monument to bourbon's enduring legacy. Behind the Bottle takes readers deep inside this historic landmark, tracing its evolution from a frontier-era operation to a global icon of American whiskey.

From its rugged beginnings to its rise as an internationally recognized name, award-winning whiskey author Richard Thomas uncovers the people, traditions, and pivotal moments that have shaped Buffalo Trace. Walk the warehouse floors, follow the evolution of time-honored techniques, and discover how generations of distillers have preserved—and perfected—the art of bourbon making.

Blending rich historical narrative with behind-the-scenes access, Behind the Bottle is a tribute to the enduring spirit of American craftsmanship. Whether you're a seasoned bourbon enthusiast or simply drawn to stories of heritage and innovation, this book reveals the passion and perseverance poured into every drop.

Richard Thomas is owner and managing editor of The Whiskey Reviewer, a leading web magazine for whiskey reviews and mixology news. Thomas's opinions and advice on whiskey have appeared on ABC News, Discovery Channel programming, Style magazine and elsewhere. He was a longtime travel contributor to Yahoo!, and he has written for outlets as diverse as USA Today, Chilled, Inside Hook, and Paste.

EQUAL TO THE TASK

A Leadership Memoir

Kenneth Chenault

For the first time ever, one of the world's most iconic business leaders shares the story of his remarkable life and career.

Ken Chenault has lived his life at the confluence of the historical forces that have shaped modern America, keenly aware of both the burdens of its past and the dynamic potential of its future. Born in 1951, when segregation was still inscribed in the laws of the land, he ascended to the peak of corporate America over the course of the next 50 years. In his thoughtful and wide-ranging memoir, Chenault reflects on his personal journey, the mentors who shaped him, and his lifelong quest to realize his own potential and make a meaningful difference in people's lives. Equal to the Task is a classic American story for our times.

After joining American Express, Chenault steadily worked his way up to the very top. He led the company for almost two decades, driving market-leading innovations, before stepping down and making another surprising life choice. Eschewing the more traditional roles for former CEOs, he joined a dynamic venture capital firm, seeking to help build enduring companies that leverage technology for both profit and purpose. Over the past years, he has continued to be a steady voice of moral clarity in the public and private sectors.

"In these pages, I share how I managed the opportunities and challenges encountered over the course of my life and career. In doing so, I hope to convey the values I hold most dear. Values passed down to me by my ancestors, my parents, my teachers, my heroes, and my mentors. These values have guided me throughout my journey, and I consider them pivotal to meeting these extraordinary times as my country wrestles with its own identity, its future, and its role in the 21st century."

Kenneth Chenault is an American businessman and one of the first African Americans to become the chief executive officer (CEO) of a Fortune 500 firm, the American Express Company; he served as its CEO from 2001 to 2018. He subsequently became chairman and managing director of General Catalyst Partners, a venture capital firm.

STORYBRAND YOUR COACHING BUSINESS

12 Simple Strategies That Make Dream Clients Say Yes

Kris Jones

Turn your expertise into a single, simple story that attracts the right clients and moves them confidently toward a yes.

Surviving as a business coach shouldn't be that difficult, should it? All a good coach needs is ten paying clients who meet with them, one-on-one, once or twice each month. Once a coach gets ten one-on-one clients, all they need then is a short waitlist of clients who want to work with them, so if, let's say, 30% of their clients drop out, they can pick up three more off their waiting list.

So, if it should be easy to start and grow a coaching business, why do 82% of coaches fail to get their coaching businesses off the ground? That's right. 82% of people who try to start coaching businesses fail within the first year.

After more than two decades working in brand strategy and messaging, Kris Jones noticed a frustrating pattern. Coaches were getting real results for their clients, yet their websites, social posts, and sales conversations were doing the opposite of what they should. Instead of attracting the right people, they created confusion, hesitation, and silence. Now, in StoryBrand Your Coaching Business, Kris shares her secrets for coaches on how to:

- Book consistent discovery calls without paid ads
- Build waitlists instead of chasing leads
- Turn their websites into reliable sales tools
- Grow from inconsistent months to predictable revenue

Kris Jones is a StoryBrand guide and Founder of Red Door Designs. She helps service providers and small business owners get compelling website copy that sells in 2.5 hours flat, so they can multiply their revenue and focus on what they do best.

HELLO SEVEN

Your Step-by-Step Guide to Earning a Million Dollars in Annual Income

Rachel Rodgers

The action guide to building serious financial power.

For too long, women have worked twice as hard to earn less than men, and women have felt emotionally broke and financially stressed. It's time for a change and time for women—especially women of color—to make bank.

In her first book, We Should All Be Millionaires, Rachel Rodgers—Black woman, mother of four kids, and self-made millionaire—shared her personal story. How she climbed from crushing debt and financial stress to wealth and abundance, running a multi-million-dollar company, and owning a blissful 57-acre horse ranch.

Her book inspired thousands of readers and listeners to construct a new attitude about money, claim their power, and build the financial security that we all need and deserve. Now, with Hello Seven, Rachel provides a practical framework to achieving seven-figure wealth.

This is the book that makes it happen. Rachel lays out the Hello Seven Growth Scale so you can identify where you fall on one of seven levels — from $0 to 7 figures — and map out the specific action steps you need to take to grow from one level to the next.

Rachel Rodgers is an eight-figure business owner. Rachel started her career working on The Hill with nonprofits, federal judges, and Hillary Clinton. When she realized that changing the world is easier when you have some cash in your bank account, she decided to build a million-dollar business and then teach other entrepreneurs how to do the same. MERGERS AND ACQUISITIONS FROM A TO Z, FIFTH EDITION

Andrew J. Sherman

This completely updated edition walks you through every step of the process—from valuation to securities laws to closing and successful integration.

When done correctly and cautiously, your company's next merger or acquisition should be an exciting, profitable time. But these complex transactions carry significant risk, no matter how simple or appealing they may look on the outside.

Complete with expert advice, case studies, checklists, and sample documents, this fully updated edition of Mergers and Acquisitions from A to Z is your complete guide to help you be prepared and take steps to eliminate rivals, extend territory, and diversify offerings.

It includes:

- The latest trends and regulatory developments.
- Best practices for structuring profitable deals.
- The latest tax and ERISA developments

- Roles and risks for boards of directors in M&A.
- Guidelines for keeping deals on track and managing post-closing challenges.
- Valuable tools, checklists, and sample forms.

It is absolutely vital for all involved in the deal to make sure they are guarding themselves against costly mistakes that have been the downfall for many leaders and organizations before them.

Andrew J. Sherman is a partner in the Washington, D.C., office of Jones Day and an internationally recognized authority on the legal and strategic issues of emerging and established companies. A top-rated adjunct professor in the MBA and Executive MBA programs at the University of Maryland and Georgetown University Law School, he is the author of Harvesting Intangible Assets, Franchising and Licensing, and Mergers Acquisitions from A to Z.

WAKE-UP CALL

9 Data-Driven Habits That Successful People Practice to Start Their Day
William Vanderbloemen

Learn the secrets of how successful people start their days! One hour can change your life. That's not an empty promise. It's a data driven fact.

Successful people, no matter where they are successful, take great care with the first hour of the day. And while they don't know it, there is a very consistent pattern to that hour. These leaders, from all ages and places, be it in business, the arts, sports, nonprofits, or even running a healthy and happy household, share similar key approaches to how they start their day. This intentional use of time at the beginning of their day helps them fuel their talents and perform at their best.

William Vanderbloemen, founder of the nation's largest and most successful values-based executive search firm, has interviewed thousands of his most successful placements to find what they have in common that contributes to their success. And while not all unicorns get up at 6 a.m. or jog five miles before breakfast, almost every one of them has a consistent wakeup time and adheres to an exercise schedule. These are just two of the elements that go into a unicorn's morning routine.

Filled with examples and based on research, Wake-Up Call is more than a checklist of what to do and not to do when you wake up in the morning.

- Learn the science behind what makes a morning routine successful.
- Understand the evolution of how practice becomes a habit.
- Form realistic expectations on when to expect transformation to take place?
- Discover new approaches to common morning roadblocks.

Find out how to apply the practices of the very successful to your own life

William Vanderbloemen, founder and CEO of Vanderbloemen Search Group, has become an unlikely business expert over his long and continuing career. Combining over 15 years of ministry experience as a Senior Pastor with the best practices of executive search, William created a brand-new industry: executive search for faith-based organizations. William previously was a Manager in Human Resources in a Fortune 200 company, working on integration of corporate culture and succession planning.

VERDICT: TRUE CRIME LOGIC PUZZLES

70+ Cases to Crack

Brian Cimmer

Suspects are lying. Alibis don't add up. The evidence is all here—can you crack the case? Cracked: True Crime Logic Puzzles puts you in the detective's chair with 75+ original case files designed for one thing: the pure, satisfying challenge of solving crimes with logic alone. No gore. No guesswork. Just you, the clues, and the truth waiting to be uncovered.

Every case follows the same rule: the answer is on the page, you just have to find it.

Examine the evidence. Cross-reference the alibis. Spot the contradiction that breaks the case wide open. Cracked: True Crime Logic Puzzles drops you into 75+ original mysteries—locked rooms, conflicting timelines, coded messages, suspicious receipts—and gives you everything you need to solve them: numbered exhibits, witness statements, and logic grids designed for clean, objective deduction.

Start with Rookie cases to learn the ropes, then work your way up to Detective and Cold Case files as the challenges sharpen and the alibis get slipperier.

Each solve builds your skills. Each case builds your confidence. No outside knowledge. No trick endings. No unsolved cases.

WEALTH AND HELLNESS

A Novel

Adam Killpartrick

Murder is a crime. Forcing someone to live forever is something else entirely.

In this explosive new thriller, the age-old quest for immortality becomes a terrifying tool for power and global control. The sinister reality of bio-engineering explodes into public view near the Vatican, where a man survives a devastating Ferrari crash—ejected like a ragdoll, yet standing up and walking away without a single injury. This impossible regeneration is not a miracle; it is a signal. The footage is rapidly scrubbed from existence by mysterious, unseen forces.

Enter Nathan Kane, the brilliant CEO of Echelon Biotech, who built his empire on saving lives. His company, a pioneer in biometric repair and cellular modulation, makes him a threat to the shadowy organization known only as The Pact. The Pact has perfected a synthetic peptide capable of initiating wound-healing with impossible speed, reprogramming the genome to make regeneration the body's default state. Immortality is now possible.

Nathan is in a desperate race against time to protect the only person who matters: his daughter, Sophie, who is battling an aggressive glioblastoma. The Pact needed leverage to force Nathan's hand, and they found it in Sophie, flagging her as a perfect genomic match for integration.

When Nathan realizes The Pact not only lured him to their secretive island fortress, Eterna Cay, but already exposed Sophie to the molecule, curing her cancer only to bind her to their system, the game changes. Now, Nathan and a small team of allies must dismantle everything The Pact built. The fight is personal and impossible, forcing them to seize the code—even as Nathan himself is exposed to the molecule's unstable AI variant. They must define the very meaning of life before they are trapped in a biological system that offers them a fate far worse than death.

Dr. Adam Killpartrick is a biotech innovator with extensive education in clinical nutrition, functional medicine, and lifestyle medicine. This is his first novel.

BEYOND THE DUST

Some stories refuse to stay buried.

Alison Gervais

Award-winning YA author Alison Gervais brings the little-known events of the Colorado Coalfield Wars of the early 20th century to life in Beyond the Dust, a gripping dual-narrative historical mystery of resilience, identity, and justice, set during one of the deadliest labor disputes in American history.

Evie is finishing her senior year of high school and working part-time at the local state history museum. What was supposed to be a way to take her mind off graduation becomes something much more mysterious when the more time she spends in the library and exhibits, the more she feels strangely inspired to draw. She soon discovers that the more she draws, the more her artwork tells the story of an old mining town in southern Colorado long forgotten by history.

Mariska is a young woman who has spent most of her life in Ferndale by 1913, a closed mining town owned by the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company. Determined to forge her own path, Mariska dreams of venturing outside the barbed wire fences surrounding town. Tensions are brewing between the company and the United Mine Workers of America, upending everything Mariska thought she knew about her community in Ferndale. She inevitably finds herself drawn into the miners' decades-long fight for representation, fair wages and safe working conditions, causing her to question where her loyalties lie and what she is willing to sacrifice for the sake of her family as a strike looms on the horizon.

The compelling story of these two young women woven together across time offers a personal perspective of the American labor movement, immigration, industrialization, corporate greed, and what it means to honor the past when the past refuses to remain silent.

Alison Gervais is the author of In 27 Days and The Silence Between Us, for which she received the 2020 Schneider Family Honor Book Award. She graduated with a degree in English from Colorado State University – Pueblo and now works at a nonprofit organization that provides services to people with disabilities. Currently Alison lives in Colorado with her husband and their two daughters.

THE VOLCANO KEEPER

A Novel

Sara Ackerman

In 1984 Hawai'i, a volcanologist haunted by loss returns to a mountain that refuses to sleep—and to the silence surrounding her grandmother's disappearance decades before.

After a tragedy in the field, volcanologist Alana Hollinger arrives on Hawai'i Island in 1984, still carrying the weight of her loss. Reluctantly returning to the dangers of fieldwork, she hopes to find the courage to walk in the shadow of a volcano again. But the ground beneath her feet feels anything but steady. As tremors stir beneath Kīlauea, Alana suspects the mountain is waking—and that her warnings of an impending eruption are being ignored. Again.

But Alana has another reason for coming to Volcano. Forty-two years earlier, her grandmother vanished during a wartime "secret" eruption of nearby Mauna Loa, leaving a trail of questions that still haunt her family. Settling into her grandmother's old house tucked away in Volcano Village, Alana begins to unearth a past that refuses to stay buried.

Her neighbor Cole Winslow, a widowed consultant at a nearby military installation, carries his own guarded truths about Mauna Loa and what it hides. As her bond with Cole and his two children deepens, Alana must navigate desire, suspicion, and the looming threat of the volcano itself.

Propulsive and spellbinding, The Volcano Keeper is the unforgettable story of a woman determined to uncover the secrets of her family and the island she calls home—before they are lost forever.

Sara Ackerman is the Hawai'i born, bestselling author of historical novels set in the islands. Her books have been labeled "unforgettable" by Apple Books, "empowering & deliciously visceral" by Book Riot. Amazon chose Radar Girls as a best book of the month, and ALA Booklist gave The Codebreaker's Secret a starred review.

BLASTOFF TO THE PLANETS

Katie Peek, Ph.D. and Robie Rogge

This innovative tactile book combines the best of learning and adventure. Travel the solar system and learn about each planet, then return home with a new appreciation for the beauty of the Earth.

It's your child's first trip to the cosmos! Take off from Earth and check out each of the other planets in our solar system. You'll learn about each celestial body and why it may not necessarily be a nicer place to be than the planet you live on. After lots of colorful and exciting adventure, return home with a new appreciation for the beauty of the world around you.

Each page of the book is longer than the one before, so you can see all the planets peeking out even when the book is closed. The rocket flies across the pages, so the book gets longer the further you travel. This fun, innovative format has great tactile appeal.

Katie Peek is a science writer, illustrator, and data visualization designer based in Baltimore. She holds a Ph.D. in astrophysics from U.C. Berkeley, where she studied obscure atoms in common stars and searched for planets circling other suns. After completing her degree, she studied science journalism at NYU then joined the art department at Popular Science magazine.
