FORTHCOMING TITLES

ERRANDS & ESPIONAGE

ADULT COMMERCIAL | SPY COMEDY

Coming August 2024 from Forever/Grand Central

FILM RIGHTS SOLD IN MAJOR DEAL

All translation rights available.

Manuscript available for review.

DEAL ANNOUNCEMENT:

Fiction: Commercial

Sam Tschida's ERRANDS & ESPIONAGE, the first book in the Secret Agent Housewife series in which an unassuming housewife is recruited by the CIA to complete a mission her doppelgänger died trying to complete, to Alex Logan at Forever, in a very nice deal, in a two-book deal, for publication in 2024, by David Purse at Inked Entertainment (world English).

BLURB:

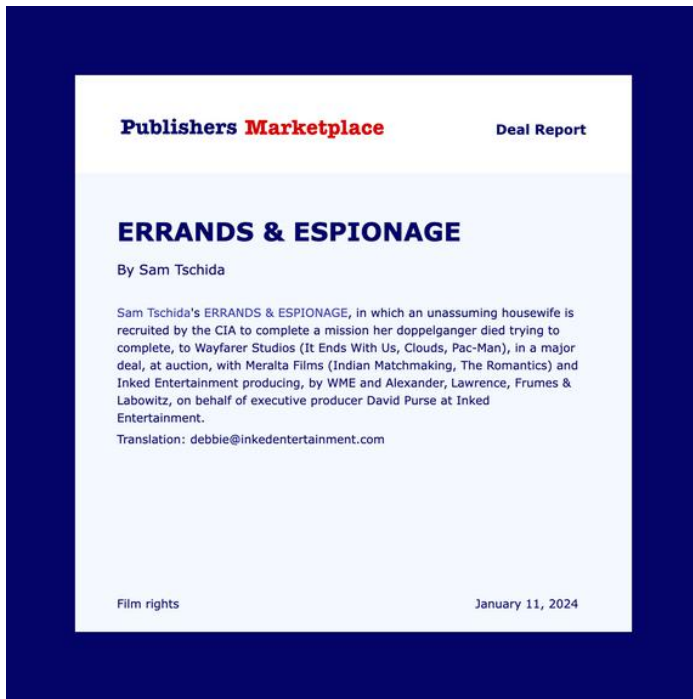

Recently divorced Gabby Greene spends most of her days listening to self-help books while wrangling her loving yet erratic kids. Having been married for over a decade, Gabby's career and ambitions have been shoved to the side to make room for mountains of laundry, running errands, and investigating the case of the missing socks. Her number one suspect: their horny Bichon Fries, Mr. Bubbles.

All that changes when a secret government agency comes knocking on Gabby's door. At first, she thinks some reality show is pranking her, but the truth hits home when they announce they need her to go undercover and finish a mission that one of their—now-dead—agents started.

While she can't deny the uncanny resemblance to her apparent doppelgänger, Gabby is far from a secret agent and initially turns the desperate agency down. After being infuriatingly underestimated—yet again!—it acts as the catalyst Gabby has needed to take the risk her self-help books talk about and try a new adventure.

Taking agent Darcy Dagger's place won't be easy, though, and hilarity and hijinks soon ensue as Gabby contends with juggling her responsibilities and trudging through a crash course in Spy 101 with a handsome James Bond type with secrets of his own.

As Gabby embarks on a dangerous mission involving money laundering, a Russian oligarch, and an unfortunate incident with a prosthetic nose, she begins to realize that she is far from the invisible housewife she once believed herself to be, and that maybe, just maybe, she might be capable of saving the day.

EXCLUSIVE: Wayfarer Studios, Meralta Films and Inked Entertainment are teaming on Errands & Espionage, a feature adaptation of the forthcoming action comedy novel by Sam Tschida, after prevailing in a bidding war for rights to the book.

Set to release in November 2024 via Forever, the buzzy title follows an unassuming, recently divorced housewife who is recruited by the CIA to complete a secret mission her doppelganger died attempting, forcing her to balance her roles as a housewife and novice spy. This is the first installment of Tschida's new Secret Agent Housewife book series. Pitch for the feature take is The Flight Attendant meets Miss Congeniality.

Errands & Espionage will be executive produced by Steve Sarowitz of Wayfarer Studios and David Purse of Inked Entertainment. Justin Baldoni and Andrew Calof will produce for Wayfarer along with Oscar- and Emmy-nominated filmmaker Smriti Mundhra, Nina Aujla, and Maya Gnyp for Meralta Films. Tschida will serve as a consulting producer, with Angela Cardon overseeing on behalf of Wayfarer Studios.

"There's something truly special about the chance to add a dash of adventure to our lives, and our lead character does exactly that by stepping into the world of espionage in this captivating wish fulfillment tale," said at Wayfarer's President of Production & Development, Calof. "We're genuinely excited to partner with Meralta Films and Inked Entertainment to bring this remarkable story from the pages of the book to the big screen."

Added Aujla, Meralta Films' Head of Film and TV, "Sam Tschida's book captivated our imaginations from the first page. It is an exploration of modern womanhood in an incredibly fun genre package. We're thrilled to work with Wayfarer Studios and Inked Entertainment to bring Sam's words to life."

BLURB:

For twelve-year-old Jae Han, the library is more than a place to check out books. It's his safe haven. The one place in the world where he can go to escape his unhappy life at home and dive into wondrous stories of magic and mystery. Where he can forget the bullies at school and work on his comic book featuring his drag superhero, Donutella Hamachi. Where he can play video games to better his English and even make friends with the other outcast kids who seek refuge among the shelves.

When Mayor Bob McQueen announces plans to demolish the library and replace it with a parking lot for the new mall across the street, Jae Han is distraught. He pleads with the librarian, Ms. Henny, to explain to the mayor how important the library is to people. To him. Ms. Henny admits that while it breaks her heart, they have no funding to keep the doors open, even if the mayor changed his mind about the parking lot. There's nothing she can do.

Ms. Henny is like a second mom to Jae Han, and he hates seeing her upset. Taking inspiration from the heroes in his books, Jae Han and his ragtag group of friends resolve to act and stop the mayor from destroying their special place. Together, they arrange an art festival at the library to attract new visitors. It's the perfect way to raise funds and make the local community aware of the mayor's intentions. Jae Han even writes a new comic to sell, featuring Donutella Hamachi battling against an evil monster inspired by the mayor called Blob the Drag Thing.

Taking action makes him feel needed and far from the helpless kid he once was. Yet being in charge is new to Jae Han, and pulling off his plans strains the friendships he holds dear and causes a further rift at home. Despite everything, Jae Han knows that time is running out. If he and his friends can't overcome their differences and pull off a successful festival, the library will face its final chapter and close for good.

BLURB:

From Inked Entertainment and #1 NYT Bestselling author E.K. Johnston comes TITAN OF THE STARS—a claustrophobic love story against an impossible backdrop—where Titanic meets Aliens.

Celeste knows every inch of this ship, and she watches from the deck, proud of her work as the maiden voyage of the Titan of the Stars launches. She's been an apprentice engineer on the ship for six months and is optimistic for the promises of this new journey- this new life.

Dominic arrives at his suite where a maid is busy unpacking his things. His chest is tight, already feeling anxious inside his dad's precious new ship. Once it launches, he's trapped, inside the ship, and inside the life his father has chosen for him - a life that will leave his dreams of art school in the ashes.

Dominic and Celeste are decks away, but it might as well be worlds as the ship makes its way to the colony on Mars, hosting the working class stiffs in the lower decks and the creme de la cream of society in the upper decks, sipping their champagne as they wander through ballrooms, casinos, museums, and even an art installation of newly collected alien life forms frozen in layers of glass plating.

Discovered under melted ice caps and intended for delivery to a highly advanced research station on Mars, the aliens are monitored around the clock, and sealed behind massive layers of shatterproof glass ... Until a malfunction releases them into the ship, with zero discrimination for class, decks, or human life.

Both Earth and Mars agree the ship must be destroyed before it docks at the Mars station, but when the final escape pod malfunctions, Dominic and Celeste must work together before they are torn apart.

Having survived a lifetime of abuse and torment from a sadistic man who broke her spirit, Charity's physical manifestation of her grief and anger allows her to hunt down those like her abuser. Only this time, Charity isn't a helpless little girl praying for things to end. Now she is the monster, and hell hath no fury like a harpy scorned.

Power always comes at a price though, and Charity's inner predator craves to take over. Torn between a life with no feeling other than the sweet satisfaction at ripping evil apart or suffering through her days to stay with the two people she cares for most, Charity must choose between her human existence or the wild and feral freedom of a flying avenger.

THE HARPY is the first book in the chilling and deeply disturbing world of the Harpyverse where victims become vigilantes and power is a thing to be played with.

ARCANA (BOOK 1)

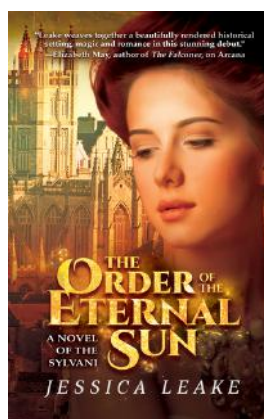

Amid the sumptuous backdrop of the London season in 1905, headstrong Katherine Sinclair must join the ranks of debutantes vying for suitors.

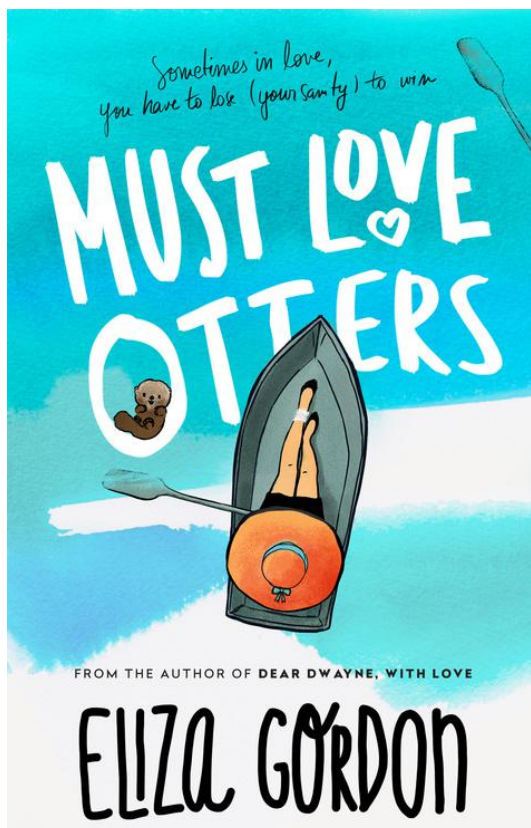

Unfortunately for Katherine, she cannot imagine anything more loathsome—or dangerous. To help ease her entrance into society, Katherine's family has elicited the assistance of the Earl of Thornewood, a friend and London's most eligible bachelor, to be her constant companion at the endless fetes and balls. But upon her arrival in London, Katherine realizes there will be more to this season than just white gowns and husband hunting.

Through her late mother's enchanted diary, Katherine receives warning to keep hidden her otherworldly ability to perform arcana, a magic fueled by the power of the sun. Any misstep could mean ruin—and not just for her family name. The Order of the Eternal Sun is everywhere—hunting for those like her, able to feed on arcana with only a touch of the hand.

But society intrigue can be just as perilous as the Order. The machinations of the fashionable elite are a constant threat, and those who covet Katherine's arcana, seeking the power of her birthright, could be hiding behind the facade of every suitor—even the darkly handsome Earl of Thornewood.

With so much danger and suspicion, can she give her heart to the one who captivates her, or is he just another after her power?
