Laura Cardea

THE REAPER AND THE ROSE. Reaper Duology (Vol. 1)

- English sample translation will be available.
- In the gripping opening to Laura Cardea's Reaper duology, a forbidden love threatens the system. She is marked for death. He is meant to be her executioner.
- A high-stakes Dystopian Romantasy where time is the ultimate currency and love is the deadliest rebellion.
- Topics: Dystopian Romance, Cinematic World, Race Against Time, You and Me Against the World, Forbidden Love, Enemies to Lovers, Slow Burn

January 2027 · 400 pages

Since she was a child, Laura Cardea was constantly told to stop daydreaming. Instead of listening, she chose to dive deeper into new literary worlds. Eventually, reading alone wasn't enough, and storytelling has been the thread running through her life ever since. In 2019, she released her debut novel, which won first place in a major writing competition. Many more books have followed since. When she isn't writing, she loves city trips with her wife, relaxing with video games on the sofa, or drawing fantasy maps and character art. You can find her on Instagram and TikTok at @lauracardea.

They built a world of glass. Their love will shatter it.

Sento is a paradise, flawless, peaceful, and cruel. In the city above the clouds, disease has been eradicated and lifespans can be extended by centuries. But only those who follow the rules are allowed to live. Good citizens are rewarded with more time; the disloyal have it stripped away.

Hana has never doubted this system. But a single moment of weakness is all it takes for her life clock to drop to 72 hours. Her death sentence is sealed. Hana flees into the ancient ruins of the underground, where she crosses paths with the rogue Reaper Azrael. He is supposed to be a heartless killer, blindly obeying the government's will, destined to end Hana's life. Yet instead, Azrael's presence ignites an unexpected fire within her.

Will their love burn bright enough to topple an entire empire? Or will Azrael's scythe seal Hana's fate before the rebellion can even begin?

Marie Niehoff, born in 1996, has been captivated by fantastical stories since she was a child, with a particular fondness for tales that include romance. Beyond her writing, she enjoys painting, creating mood boards, tending to her many houseplants, and reading tarot cards. Her debut fantasy novel, "When The King Falls," quickly became a Spiegel bestseller upon its release. The success continued with her second book, "The Queen Will Rise," which reached the number 1 spot on the list. "Burning Crown," the first book in her new Dragonbound trilogy, has also achieved the status of a Spiegel No.1 bestseller. To date, her books have been translated into seven languages.

"You can escape death. But the Devil will never let you go."

„In modern-day Edinburgh, half-demon Lilian lives on a knife's edge, constantly proving her loyalty to the Order of demon hunters that raised her. Just as full membership and long-awaited freedom are within grasp on her 25th birthday, she plans to finally give in to the intoxicating, suppressed chemistry between her and her training partner, Jupiter.

But then they are called to a mission – and she dies.

Devastated, Jupiter is willing to pay any price to bring her back. Even if it means making a pact with the Devil himself. In exchange for her life, he grants Lucifer temporary control over his body. He has no idea of the cruel plans the Devil is harbouring. Or that Lucifer is about to ensnare Lilian in a dangerous game of deception and seduction ...

VINES & BONES

- Original English manuscript available.
- Fresh, intoxicating, and spine-chilling: Science Fiction meets Horror meets Romance in this extraordinary, cinematic standalone novel which will be published in Spring '27.
- A claustrophobic nightmare: Creeping vines that seem to move just out of sight, and forests made of bone. The atmosphere builds with exquisite dread toward a bloody, breathless finale.
- Immensely accessible: With almost the entire plot unfolding on the surface of a singular planet, there is no dense world-building. Instead, classic Sci-Fi questions of morality, colonial impact, and humanity's survival take centre stage.
- Topics: Sci-Fi Horror Romance, Rivals to Lovers, Slow-Burn Romance, Love Triangle (if you squint, the ex is very much an ex), Sex Pollen (with consent), Deadly Peril, Apocalyptic Earth, Alien Planet

· 416 pages

K. M. Schumacher lives with her family in eastern Australia. She has been telling stories for as long as she can remember, always keeping the focus firmly on her characters. Her protagonists possess rough edges, experiencing both deep love and absolute horror. Her first novel to be published in German, Vines & Bones, balances on the edge between the romance and science fiction genres. Set after Earth has become virtually uninhabitable, the book raises poignant questions about colonisation and morality. "You can cross lightyears to find paradise. But Eden always demands a sacrifice."

Earth is on the brink of total collapse. Following catastrophic climate shifts, the remnants of humanity barely survive beneath hermetically sealed domes. Their final beacon of hope lies several lightyears away on a newly discovered planet named Eden. Boasting breathable air and rich, fertile soil, it appears to be the pristine paradise Earth once was.

Melanie Rutherford is part of the elite scientific team tasked with determining whether Eden is truly safe for human colonisation. Arriving with the second wave, she is horrified to find that an unexplained accident has wiped out the first expedition, leaving only three traumatised survivors. Among them is the brilliant Casper Elwood, the leader of the mission... and Melanie's ex.

As if navigating her fractured past with Casper isn't challenging enough, Melanie must also work alongside Elias Miller. The two have clashed fiercely since their university days, and their mutual animosity hasn't changed. What has changed, however, are the quiet, suffocating moments when they aren't fighting. Moments where an unexpected camaraderie, and an undeniable, high-friction chemistry, begins to ignite.

But personal rivalries vanish into the dark when the team makes a terrifying realization: Eden is alive, watching them, and harboring a lethal secret that will force them to question what they are truly willing to sacrifice to survive ...

"We're broken. But even broken things can be beautiful ..."

Blake Whitney is back at Bexley College. Last semester marked the beginning of her studies – a journey that was abruptly cut short by an accident. An accident she has no memory of whatsoever, just as she lacks any recollection of the year leading up to it. It feels good to be back and to finally move on with her life.

Yet the moments in which she is recognised by someone, while she herself hasn't the faintest clue who that person is, are consistently strange and uncomfortable. And to no one does this apply more than to Matthew Hunt. The young, handsome lecturer's classes are exceptionally popular because he is competent and fair – to everyone except her. For some reason, Matthew cannot stand her. But why? Why does he look at her every time they meet as if she had destroyed his entire world?

"We're done with forgive and forget. Now we're doing remember and revenge."

"No ... wait ... please ..."

After an incident with her drunk boyfriend, Victoria's world begins to crumble. She and Austin are the 'it' couple of the University of Ontario; everyone envies their relationship. But that night, he ignored her 'no' and if his brother hadn't walked into the room...

Except her sorority sisters and Austin himself act as if it is no big deal. Victoria is completely unsettled. However, there is one thing she knows for certain: she can no longer stand being touched by Austin. So, she breaks up with him.

But that is when hell truly begins, because Austin refuses to accept her decision. She finds support from the most unexpected place: his brother, Luke, and her new friends, Chloe and Aisha. Her growing feelings for Luke are the last thing Vic needs right now. Chloe and Aisha, on the other hand, become her lifeline. Because the two women don't just support her – no, they decide to take action. They are going to get revenge ...

"I have a knack for doing things I really shouldn't."

When Branwyn tries on a Barbie costume for the annual Halloween contest, her arch-nemesis Dale fails to recognise her. Seeing an opportunity for revenge, Branwyn – a notorious prankster – invents a new persona: "Bonnie". Her goal? To make Dale fall in love with her, only to crush him the way he once humiliated her.

The scheme offers a welcome escape from her personal life, where her adoptive parents' secret pregnancy is triggering her fear of abandonment. But things get complicated when Branwyn needs Dale's academic help to stay on the football team and finds herself relying on her "Bonnie" disguise once again.

Suddenly, the lines between hate and love begin to blur. As she gets closer to Dale, the game becomes all too real. Branwyn set out to break his heart, but she might just be the one in danger of losing hers.

Love is made of courage!

Hurt. Frightened. Lost. That's how Abbi feels at the moment. She just wants to go home, away from the rehabilitation clinic where she is supposed to learn to walk again after a bad car accident. But she is making no progress. None at all. Since the accident, Abbi has had a panic fear of pain, and the therapy is not going well – until she gets a new physiotherapist. David Rivers is still a student, but with his patient, gentle manner he gets through to her. Whenever he touches her, her fear vanishes. She feels safe. But she is not. Because David knows a secret that could tear her whole world apart ...

BLUE – Wherever You Find Me. Paper Love (Vol. 2)

- With flip book and origami folding instructions.
- Topics: Contemporary Romance, Workplace Romance (and the workplace is a diner), Grieving Heroine, Family Secrets, Hidden Identity

Love doesn't have to be perfect. It just has to be true.

Jane is alone. Because her mother died suddenly. Because her brother lied to her. And because there's a secret no one can ever know. Unwilling to go home right now, she's secretly sleeping in the diner where she works. At least the job is a distraction. Especially when Alex is there. Alex, who is arrogant, sarcastic, and short-tempered. And yet, he fascinates her.

Slowly, she begins to notice that the handsome political science student's caustic attitude only surfaces in certain situations. He seems to intentionally keep people at a distance. And when Jane learns the reason why, it breaks her heart ...

She never wanted to come back. He never wanted to let her go ...

It was four years ago that Ivy lost everything. Shortly after her mother died, her stepfather packed her off to boarding school because she was constantly arguing with her older stepbrother, Asher. But suddenly her stepfather wants to see her again this summer and calls her back home to an island on the New Hampshire coast, where she meets Asher once more. He's still just as unbearable as ever, still just as difficult. And still much too good looking. Damn. Seeing him again bothers her far much more than she had expected. But, when Ivy discovers why she was called back to the island, her world threatens to fall apart completely ...

- Topics: Scotland, Mother-Daughter Relationship, Identity, Belonging, The Meaning of Family, First Love, Adoption, New Adult Romance

A story of love, family, friendship and courage.

Victoria is shocked to learn, at nineteen, that she was adopted. Against her parents' wishes, she sets off on a journey to find her biological mother. Accompanying her on this journey is Jack, her best friend, the one person who is always there for her, safe and stable. But her world is becoming unstable, and Vic soon finds herself developing feelings one isn't supposed to have for one's best friend. Could she – and, more importantly, would she want to – risk this friendship? Particularly now, when she needs him by her side more than ever? Given that her journey has led her to a woman whose reaction is not at all what she had expected.

“You weren’t just a star, to me. You were my whole sky.”

This feels like a terrible joke. That's Emmeline's first thought when a young woman appears at her doorstep claiming to be her daughter. Emmeline doesn't have children; in fact, she cannot have children since she was involved in a car accident as a teenager. Therefore, this must be a cruel prank, and it's far from funny. Yet, the young woman is earnest and fully convinced of their connection. When Emmeline's own mother confirms this startling revelation by confessing that Emmeline was pregnant when the accident happened, Emmeline is forced to delve into a past she barely remembers. She discovers that her parents not only hid Victoria from her but also severed ties with her closest friends and her first love, Liam, who appears to be Victoria's biological father. She must now revisit a relationship with a man she hasn't seen in two decades, yet who still holds a piece of her heart ...

A young romance in the wilderness of the Canadian nature.

Haven lives in one of Canada's national parks as the daughter of a ranger. Nowhere does she feel as at home as in the wilds, far from other human beings. She prefers to avoid tourists, especially when they behave as stupidly as Jackson. He wants to go hiking with a friend, but the reckless city boys land themselves in a dangerous situation on the very first evening. She helps them on the understanding that they will then leave, but instead, Jackson convinces Haven to show him her world. And suddenly there is someone who shares everything that she previously experienced alone. A confusingly nice, but also painful, feeling. For Jackson must soon return to his city life ...

When seeking solitude leads to unexpected company ...

Rae is a typical city kid. She enjoys the anonymity, the fast pace, the rapid change of the city. Nowhere else is better for being able to forget yourself. If someone had told her a year ago that she would set off on month-long hikes through the Canadian wilderness with a backpack, she would have laughed. But that's exactly what she is doing now.

Because she can't go on this way and she needs to learn to be alone. Because she needs to free herself from painful memories. Only now she is not quite as alone on her hikes as she planned, because Cayden has decided to join her, against her will. Cayden of all people. He is a womaniser, takes nothing seriously and really gets on her nerves -- until he lets her see behind his mask ...

Today, she lives with her husband and three cats and devotes herself entirely to writing. Her debut book for young adults, "Gameshow", made it onto the Spiegel bestseller list straight away, and with the "Cosy Secrets" series she is now writing books in the romance genre for the first time. You can follow her on Instagram and TikTok (@franzikopka).

Rae's to-do list: 1. find Grandma. / 2. avoid Archer. / 3. ignore point two. / 4. not lose my heart to Archer again while he's helping me search. / 5. ignore point four. / 6. shit.

"Your grandmother has been kidnapped."

When crime writer Rae receives this news, she initially rolls her eyes. Her grandma's friends are certainly exaggerating shamelessly. It's not unusual for her grandmother to go travelling without prior notice. And besides, who would kidnap a harmless old lady like Fenella? Nevertheless, Rae sets off for her home town in the north of Scotland to find out what has happened. There she realises that the circumstances of Fenella's disappearance are indeed suspicious - and that her grandma had more secrets than Rae ever suspected. One of these secrets leads her straight to Archer Warwick, the man she once wanted to elope with. And annoyingly, Rae's heart still beats just as fast in his presence as it used to ...
